Man had haul of hidden stun guns

BY RACHEL ALLEN

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

AN arsenal of stun guns disguised as mobile phones and torches were discovered at a cannabis grower's home.

Officers searched Kyle Lyons's home when he was arrested on September 20, 2010, for a road-rage incident in which he used a blue light, seen in undercover police cars and a siren while following a driver closely all the way to their home address.

During the search at the 20-year-old's address, in Sperling Drive, Haverhill, two black spray cans containing an unknown liquid were found, a court heard.

His deceased father's address was also searched in the High Street, West Wickham, where a safe was found containing six stun guns disguised as torches – all in cases with holsters – and a further six

Discharge of sick prisoner 'unsafe'

DISCHARGING a sick prisoner from hospital was "unsafe", an inquest jury has heard.

The hearing into the death of Vijay Kumar Sharma, a prisoner at Highpoint in Stradishall, has opened in Bury St Edmunds.

Mr Sharma, 57, died at West Suffolk Hospital on May 6, 2008, because of a perforated gastric ulcer which led to a blood-stream infection that caused multiple organ failure.

He was taken from Wormwood Scrubs in London to HMP Highpoint on April 1 2008, after being judged fit to travel. Mr Sharma was sick during the journey and examined on arrival at Highpoint. An ambulance was called to take him to West Suffolk Hospital, where he was diagnosed with a peptic ulcer.

He was discharged later that day, which was described as an "unsafe discharge" by Manolis Gavalas, a consultant in accident and emergency medicine at University College London Hospital.

Mr Gavalas said while there is a shortage of beds and hospitals are always aware of the need to discharge patients, it is the doctor's job to decide on the best and worst case scenarios for patients.

BY JENNIE BAKER

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Mr Gavalas said the doctor who played a part in the discharge of Mr Sharma had chosen the best scenario possible rather than the worst.

He felt a CT scan should have been carried out during Mr Sharma's hospital stay. However, it is unclear when the ulcer perforation took place.

John Shiers, representing West Suffolk Hospital, said: "If the CT scan was done before the perforation, it would not have revealed anything to suggest a perforation was about to happen?"

Mr Gavalas said it would not.

Mr Sharma spent the night in the prison's segregation unit so his condition could be monitored. The next morning, he was moved to the healthcare centre and then to the induction wing but collapsed on his way there.

A taxi was called to take him to hospital but around an hour and a half later it had not arrived. By this time he had collapsed again and was taken to hospital by ambulance where he underwent emergency surgery and died several weeks later.

The inquest continues.

Wash and go helps raise school trip funds

ENTREPRENEURIAL primary school pupils used elbow grease to turn a small amount of cash into £100 for a school trip.

Year 6 students from Kedington Primary School created a carwash business at their school on Saturday after investing £27 in brushes, car shampoo and buckets.

The children set to work on a queue of cars, and divided up the jobs to ensure every vehicle was left spotless at a charge of £3.50.

Rachel Darvill, school secretary, said: "It was an Apprentice-style challenge to turn a small amount of money into more. The children came up with the idea of a carwash, made posters and put them up around the village, and decided what equipment and roles were needed for the day.

"Lots of villagers and parents turned up to have their cars cleaned, and the kids had a fun time getting soaking wet and collecting the money.

"What they have raised will go towards a class trip or could be spent on something they want for the classroom."

The group are hoping to hold another work day in the future, with students thinking about a screen wash at the village shops.

Man who grew cannabis gets 15 months after admitting possessing stun guns disguised as mobile phones as well as two personal defence sprays.

Lyons appeared at Cambridge Crown Court on Monday, for sentencing, having previously pleaded guilty to four counts of possessing a prohibited weapon and one count of producing a class B drug.

Two further offences of possession of a prohibited weapon were also taken into consideration.

Marti Blair, prosecuting, said: "There was a further search of both addresses on April 6, 2011.

"In one of the bedrooms at the West Wickham property, two small cannabis plants were found growing in a hydroponic set up.

"Officers noticed two areas of recently dug earth in the garden, close to an area where a fire had been lit.

"Officers initially found that there was something approximately one metre below the surface. It was a blue plastic canister covered in grey plastic."

It contained 29 stun guns and 62 pepper spray cans and a further 30 CS sprays were found in a carrier bag in a tumble drier.

Two stun guns and a self defence spray were also found in a shed.

During police interview Lyons admitted ordering 80 stun guns from China and "playing with them" as well as selling 10 to a friend.

He said that "as customs had let them into the country he didn't think they were too serious".

Richard Kelly, mitigating, said his client is "emotionally immature" and this had led to him buying the prohibited weapons without considering the consequences.

However Judge Jonathan Haworth said: "In my opinion your behaviour cannot be explained away as a product of immaturity. The serious aggravating factor in this case is your secretion of the weapons from the police."

Lyons was given 15 months' detention in a young offenders' institution for the possession of the prohibited weapons and three months for producing cannabis, to be served consecutively.

Stupid boy! Pike bites off more than he can chew

THIS fat fish met a sticky end after attempting to guzzle a whole 3lb carp in one go.

The star 12lb pike at Hermitage Fisheries in Snow Hill, Clare was a popular catch among the local fishing community – but choked to death after 10 years of swimming the lakes as it tried to swallow another huge fish.

David Walker, the owner of the fisheries, recovered the body of the dead 32in pike and its half-eaten prey stuck down its throat and buried it.

Stanley Wright, 82, was one of the last fishermen to catch the pike while it was still alive.

He said: "It's a shame he's died but it looks like he's bitten off a bit more than he can chew. I often fish in those lakes but there's a lot of tiddlers. I had heard there was this one giant pike, and I've always fished since I was young so I thought I'd try to get him a couple of weeks ago while the weather was still nice.

"I ended up catching him twice in two hours and I was really proud because I've never managed to catch him before. I spoke to the fisheries owner about the success of my catch, so it's sad the biggest fish is gone now."

Fire in cylinder spreads to car

A FIRE started in an LPG cylinder and spread to a nearby car at the weekend.

One fire crew from Haverhill was called to the blaze in Hollesley Avenue at 1.36pm on Sunday. The gas cylinder had caught fire, and the flames spread to a car. Both were well alight when fire crews attended and extinguished the blaze.

Arsonists target football pitch

ARSONISTS targeted the community football pitch in Camps Road on Sunday night.

A 9ft strip of AstroTurf was set on fire between 4pm on Sunday and 7am on Monday. The pitch was damaged. Suffolk Police are asking anyone who may have information to call them on 101 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Rangers show how to make bird dinner

GET closer to the birds in your own back garden by learning how to make a delicious dinner for them. Join the rangers at East Town Country Park on Tuesday, October 25 to learn how to make a simple bird feeder to entice some feathered friends into your garden and let you watch them close at hand.

The activity takes place between 10am and noon, and is suitable for children aged 5 to 12. Places cost £4 per child. To book a place, call the park on 01284 757088 or email parks@stedsbcb.gov.uk.

Government visit as extra schools funding revealed

BY RUTH NORRIS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

EDUCATION secretary Michael Gove is visiting Haverhill schools tomorrow following an announcement that disadvantaged pupils in West Suffolk are to receive extra money.

Mr Gove will be visiting Samuel Ward Academy and the Castle Partnership schools to meet with teachers, governors and students. He will be shown round by Matthew Hancock, MP for West Suffolk, who says he wants to show off the achievements of Haverhill's schools and impress on the secretary of state what is needed in the future.

Mr Gove's visit comes following an announcement that funding will be increased for school-children from disadvantaged backgrounds.

Mr Hancock said: "I welcome today's timely announcement of increased resources for less well-off pupils, including £500,000 for West Suffolk. Ahead of Michael Visit: Michael Gove is set to tour schools in Haverhill.

Gove's visit to Suffolk on Friday, I welcome this support from the Government for the most disadvantaged children.

"It is vital that schools in Suffolk are able to give as much support as possible to children from disadvantaged backgrounds so that they flourish at school. This increase in funding will make a real difference to the education of each of the 1,650 children eligible for the pupil premium.

"I am very proud of West Suffolk's schools, which are improving all the time under excellent leadership. This will be a further boost, and I am glad that they will now have more resources to help make sure that no pupil struggles because of his or her background."

Schools around Haverhill will benefit from the extra money to focus on their disadvantaged students.

Place Farm Primary School, which is recognised by the Government as having 19 per cent of its students as eligible for the deprivation pupil premium, will receive £28,580 this year.

Castle Manor will receive £25,380 and Samuel Ward Academy will benefit from £22,450.

Clements Primary School will receive the most relative to the size of the school, with 24 per cent of its 150 pupils identified as eligible, meaning the school gets £17,568.

Fresh role: the new inspector at Haverhill police station, Peter Ferrie.

Picture: Keith Jones 777983

Inspector's happy to be back in town

A NEW policing commander for Haverhill hopes to unite the force in the area to achieve a safer town.

Inspector Peter Ferrie took over as police chief on Monday, coming from a position in the control room at Suffolk Police headquarters.

Insp Ferrie, who has previously worked as a beat officer in the north of Haverhill for 10 years, said: "I am genuinely delighted to be back in the town.

"I love Haverhill, and got to know it very well in the 10 years I was here before. It's just a lovely town with lovely people."

Insp Ferrie, who lives in Newmarket, has swapped positions with Insp Chris

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Galley, who has now gone to the force control room.

Insp Galley's job was to head the Safer Neighbourhood Team (SNT) for Haverhill and for the rural south of St Edmundsbury, but Insp Ferrie will also be in charge of the response unit for Haverhill, bringing together the two aspects of policing in the area.

The SNT are patrolling officers who aim to identify local problems and come up with long-term solutions, whereas the response team deal with emergencies and serious situations.

He said: "The response unit are the members of the team who are zipping around Haverhill at 100mph dealing with the calls that come in – rapes, robberies and so on.

"Before that was a completely separate unit to the community officers but now I'm in charge of both we will be able to link both sides together more closely."

To meet with the Haverhill officers face-to-face, voice your concerns, or ask advice, there will be a police surgery in the Cambridge Way area on October 25 between 2.30pm and 4.30pm, and the same in the Queensway shopping area on October 26 between 10am and noon.

You can contact Haverhill police with non-emergency issues on the new number 101 (see page 20). In an emergency, always dial 999.

Volunteers invited to hear keynote speakers

MEET a diverse range of people and promote your volunteering opportunities at this year's Haverhill Volunteer Centre AGM.

All are welcome at the meeting on Friday, October 28, to hear guest speakers Matthew Hancock, MP for West Suffolk, and Kay Newman, St Nicholas Hospice neighbour coordinator.

The meeting will run from 12.15pm to 2pm at the Haverhill Arts Centre, and a buffet lunch will be provided. To book your place, call 01440 708444 or email info@hvc.org.uk

Meanwhile, time is running out to vote for the Volunteer Centre to receive funding from the NatWest Community Force fund.

Residents have until noon on Monday to register their vote for the Haverhill Volunteer Centre to receive £6,000 towards keeping community projects running in Haverhill, such as befriending elderly people, supporting families, conservation and youth volunteering.

Go to <http://community.force.natwest.com/project/446> to vote.

Counting down to chills and thrills

SPOOKY goings-on will be seen all over town next Friday (October 28) as Halloween comes to Haverhill.

A Halloween trail will take place at East Town Country Park, which promises to be frightening fun for all the family.

Come in fancy dress at 7pm for this free event, and bring a torch.

A Halloween golf night will be taking place at Haverhill Golf Club, with families invited to dress up and tee off over seven holes from 6pm, with prizes for the best dressed.

After a round of golf, you are invited to head back to the club house for a dinner of minced batwings, nasty ghouls and witches fingers.

Entry for golf and food is £9 per person and £6 per person for food only.

To book call the club on 01440 710311.

A Halloween Showcase at the TIC Raceway in Homefield Road will also be taking place from 7pm, with the track open all day for practice. Visitors can expect frights throughout the evening. Race entry is open to bangers and costs £2.

'I can't afford to bury Peter'

BY RUTH NORRIS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A MAN who was stripped of his benefits when he developed terminal cancer has died, leaving his wife without enough money even to pay for his funeral.

Peter Duut, a Haverhill resident whose story was featured in the Weekly News last Thursday, did not live to read the article as he died that evening.

His wife, Laurel, has been left "destitute", without enough money to pay for a funeral, death certificate or food.

Laurel, who was too upset to speak directly, expressed her thanks through her mother Anita Lincoln to all the readers who have offered money, food, car rides and other help to her.

Anita said: "Sadly Peter passed away on Thursday night before he had the chance to read the news story, which he had hoped would bring attention to his problem and perhaps help any others in a similar situation so that they wouldn't have to suffer like he did."

"With all the focus before on him, Laurel has been a little forgotten. Now she is left with even less money than ever. She suffers from PTSD and is too ill to work, but the only benefits she receives are a disability allowance once a month.

"That money has all gone on her travel to hospital to be with Peter, and now she can't even plan a funeral for her husband as she has no way to pay for it.

"She can't go on forever on no money. Britain has failed Peter, but I hope another death doesn't have to happen before a resolution can be brought to this case."

Anita said Laurel had been advised to take out a loan to pay for the funeral, but that she was not intending to do so as she was worried she would not be able to make any repayments.

Dutch national Peter worked for several years in the UK, but when he became terminally ill with cancer in April he tried to claim benefits, only to be told that he did not qualify.

The couple have since been unable to afford enough food, and were battling with the Department of Work and Pensions (DWP) to give them enough money to live off.

Give us right to reply on parking

Sir, if you knowingly break the law, don't start moaning when you are faced with the consequences. That is how the law is and has been for hundreds of years. However, there has always been the right to be able to argue your point of view, prove that you did not intentionally break the law, with no penalty being forced upon you, except, that is, in St Edmundsbury Borough Council area.

If, for whatever reason, you attract a parking ticket in one of their car parks, Bury St Edmunds for instance, you have the choice of paying either the £30 within two weeks or £70 if you decided to question the validity of the ticket. How dare you question them? For that you will pay the extra £40. In any civilised society if you can prove that you did not intentionally break the law, there should not be any penalty. If you buy a parking ticket, put it in your windscreen, close the door and do not notice that the ticket has flipped over, surely there should be some way of showing the council that you did pay the fee without being penalised. Issue the ticket, but once the proof of payment has been made cancel it. This is what happens in most boroughs. Don't gloat and tell me that you can do what you like as all appeals are never upheld, plus by appealing you will pay a further £40. This council needs to get itself into the 21st century and realise that people using the car parks are putting money into the town – don't penalise them.

Residents were worried by article

Sir, your article 'Old pub set to become homes' (Weekly News, October 13) claimed that planning permission had been given for the development of the Black Horse public house, Camps Road. While this in itself is correct, the article then stated that the development would include parking and that "road access in Edmund Close will be upgraded". These points are totally incorrect. Amended plans removing the parking facilities had, in fact, been submitted and it was actually these amended plans which had been approved at the meeting which took place. This incorrect information has caused considerable worry and upset to the residents of Edmund Close (and other affected residents). The residents had believed that Edmund Close would not now be affected by this development. On the strength of your article, several residents approached me concerned that some of their land would be compulsorily purchased to accommodate such an "upgrade". Please could you insert an appropriate article in your next edition to ensure the peace of mind of several of your readers.

When are you happiest? Spending time with family and friends. I know it's a cliché but I as much as I love visiting new places I also like coming home.
How do you relax? Watching films on the big screen. I wish I could say it was curled up with a good book but I've always been a visual sort of person, seeing the story played out on screen has always captured me more. I think it was my grandmother's influence. She was a big fan of old Hollywood movies, especially Audrey Hepburn.
Pet hates? Rudeness, dishonesty, arrogance, and shopping trolleys that roll off when you are trying to unload bags into your car! And as a business owner a big pet hate is companies that don't pay on time, or at all. We are in this recession together and being paid on time and certainly being paid full stop is crucially important to small businesses.
Guilty pleasure? Handbags. I don't why but I love them and I always convince myself to buy just one more. God knows why – you only need one to carry everything around in!

Favourite book/movie: I love Keeping the Faith. It's a romantic comedy starring Ben Stiller and Ed Norton about a rabbi and a Catholic priest, who both fall for their childhood friend, Anna. It sounds like the start of a joke, but it is one of the funniest and heart-warming films I have ever seen. If I'm having a bad day it always cheers me up.
Favourite holiday destination: I love New York. It's my favourite city in the world. It has everything, great energy, great restaurants and bars, a backdrop which was the set of so many Hollywood movies, plus shopping.

Sue Warren, 36, is a former journalist who founded Haverhill-based PR consultancy Simply PR (www.simplypr.net).

Your hero: When I was a child my hero was Lois Lane – smart, funny, a great reporter plus she got to date Superman!
Four people you'd invite to dinner: My dad. My dad died eight years ago and I have often dreamt of conversations I'd have with him now if he could just pop back for dinner.
Kate Adie. She was one of my inspirations to train as a reporter and I was privileged to meet and interview her when I eventually qualified as a journalist.
Alan Sugar. I love The Apprentice and would love to quiz him on what he really thought of all those contestants he has fired in his boardroom.
James Corden. Just for sheer entertainment value.
What would your super-power be? Super speed to enable me to get all the things done on my to do list by the end of each week.

What three possessions would you take with you to a desert island? My iPhone to call for help, listen to music and check my emails, a sun lounger (might as well soak up some rays) and a big storage container full of food.
If you ruled the country for a day what would you do? Find a balance between austerity measures and growing the economy.
What do you love most about living in Haverhill? I've lived here for 25 years and Haverhill has undergone a real transformation in terms of facilities and the look and feel of the town. I think there is still more to do but we desperately need to ensure that the poor image of the Haverhill held by some in days gone by is replaced by with a sense of pride in our town for all that it has accomplished.

After their annual harvest service, pupils at Coupals Primary School held a Harvest Tea last Friday for senior citizens in Haverhill and their grandparents.

Children and parents made sandwiches, cakes and biscuits, as well as collecting food tins for the Haverhill Food Bank.

Angie Dolby, school teacher, said: "This year was our biggest yet, and everyone enjoyed sandwiches and tea followed by

"They were also entertained by the rest of the school who sang their harvest songs."

Queen St heritage at risk, says report

INDUSTRIAL heritage in Haverhill is at risk, according to the largest ever research project into the issue.

Queen Street is among four sites in Suffolk which have been placed on the Heritage at Risk register following research done by English Heritage.

They have found that the owners of buildings with an interesting industrial past in the region are finding it hard to look after them properly, and that developers are reluctant to take on vacant sites.

A poll has shown that 82 per cent of people think preserving old industrial areas like Queen Street is as important as work done with castles and country houses.

Greg Luton, English Heritage East of England planning director said: "Britain led the way towards global industrialisation and as a result we are custodians of some of the world's most important industrial heritage. It is, however, one of the elements of our heritage most at risk.

"Forty percent of these buildings could be reused as dwellings or offices, and to house new advanced manufacturing – the sorts of technology, green engineering and creative and inventive businesses on which the country's economic future now depends.

"However, 60 per cent of our industrial heritage won't ever attract developers and businesses. Its future could be bleak but, as our poll shows, people are passionate about our industrial past and since the 1960s there has been a strong tradition of local groups taking on the preservation of their local industrial heritage."

The English Heritage research found that the main risks to industrial heritage are that developers are reluctant to consider sites because of possible problems, that current low property values are off-putting, developers and owners are struggling to finance their work or find funding, and visitor attractions need help with business planning, marketing and interpretation.

Other poll findings showed that 61 per cent of those in the East of England agree that the industrial revolution is the most important period of British history and 70 per cent think industrial heritage sites should be reused for modern day purposes as long as their character is preserved.

Travellers need 12 more sites

A FURTHER 12 permanent sites for travellers are needed in St Edmundsbury, according to a report.

The study carried out by Cambridgeshire County Council's research group found that in the next two decades, 12 new pitches would need to be established in the area. Three of those will have to be found in the next five years.

A spokeswoman for St Edmundsbury Borough Council said: "These are in addition to the 20 pitches identified earlier by the borough council for the Regional Spatial Strategy. We are currently waiting for the planning appeal decision for an extension to an existing site. St Edmundsbury has not identified any other potential sites in the borough."

The report also found that the borough needs a pitch for travelling showpeople to be found within the next five years.

The study showed that more than 300 pitches would be needed in the Cambridge area in total.

On song: Jemma Pollard is aiming to perform at the O2 Arena.

CP

Teenager in quest to be next big star

A TEENAGE hairdresser is hoping to become the next big thing after wowing judges at the Open Mic UK Showcase.

Jemma Pollard, 15, is just one step away from performing on stage at The O2 after acing a rendition of One Big Family in her auditions.

The CRC student, who lives in Steeple Bumpstead, dreams of becoming a pop star and if her next song goes to plan at the area finals on November 27 she will be performing on the huge O2 stage in the national final.

Jemma, who works at the Andrew James salon in Saffron Walden as part of her young apprenticeship in hairdressing, said: "All I want is to be a singer. I never stop singing, even when I was little it was all I would do in my room, in the shower, in the car."

"Whenever I get stressed or annoyed I go and sing and it really calms me down."

"I was really nervous in the initial auditions, but for the most recent one it wasn't too bad. My favourite artists are Rihanna and Jesse J and I sing their songs all the time."

BY RUTH NORRIS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

"Obviously winning would be totally amazing, but I went to see a gig at the O2 and I just thought, if I can just get through the next stage and perform up there, that would be enough to make me so happy."

At the area finals in November Jemma will perform in front of hundreds of audience members and industry judges to fight for a spot in the national finals in London.

Thousands of acts entered the Open Mic UK 2011 competition, which aims to find the best unsigned singers from across the country and give one lucky winner a £30,000 record contract.

A previous 15-year-old female winner, Birdy, shot to fame after signing to Warner Music and releasing her version of Skinny Love, which has become a Radio 1 favourite.

Jemma says that, even if she does not win, her singing career will continue and hopes to have some local gigs sorted in the near future.

Spot the difference.

dine out for £10

FEELING hungry? Our hugely popular Dine Out for £10 promotion returns, in association with our sister paper, the Cambridge News. The offer, which runs until Sunday November 13, gives you the chance to enjoy great value meals out at the 19 pubs and restaurants listed below. Whether you fancy a great steak, a fabulous fish dish or a vegetarian feast, there will be something for you – and there are new venues taking part.

HOW TO TAKE UP THE OFFER

1 Collect three tokens – of which two MUST be from those being published regularly in the Cambridge News.

The third can also be from the News, or taken from this newspaper. Alternatively, visit the 'Dine out for £10' section of Cambridge News Online at www.cambridge-news.co.uk to print off a bonus token. You'll also find a full guide to the venues taking part, including the times and days of the week when the offer is valid.

2 Phone to book a place at your chosen restaurant, stating that you wish to take advantage of the 'Dine Out for £10' offer. Please note, the venues are running the offer at certain times and days of the week.

3 Present your tokens as you order your food. Three tokens entitle two people to dine for £10 EACH on the special Cambridge News menus – excluding drinks. If more than two people are dining you'll need more tokens: six for 3-4 people, nine for 5-6 people etc.

TERMS & CONDITIONS

Offer is subject to availability.
Offer runs until Sunday November 13.
Those failing to present the correct number of tokens will not be entitled to use the offer.
Photocopies will not be accepted.
Issues concerning food or service should be taken up with the venue concerned.

Film marathon for teen Ivan

BY RUTH NORRIS

Email: editorial@elyweeklynews.co.uk

A TECH-SAVVY teen has won an award after spending a sleepless weekend taking part in a 48-hour non-stop film project.

Ivan Causey, 17, joined over the internet with a team of amateur filmmakers in writing, shooting, editing and scoring an entire film within two days at The 48 Hour Film Project.

The group of young animators from all over the world are known as WeirdWiredProductions, and turned their love of computer games into an award-winning six-minute mockumentary.

Ivan, who lives with his family in Haverhill, said: "We were given a few things we had to include in our film, such as a character called Maureen, a hat, and the line 'can I keep you?' at 3am in the morning on Saturday, September 20, and then we were left for 48 hours to see what we could come up with.

"I had to drink a lot of energy drinks to get through, but we were pleased with what we came up with in the end, although there was quite a stressful moment in the middle when my computer stopped working."

The film, which follows the story of a reporter investigating a strange new technology, combined footage from online game World of Warcraft with 3D animation software Moviestorm, which is made by a Cambridge-based company.

Judge Tony Dyson, the man behind R2-D2, recognised the high level of skill in the group's film Virtual Insanity, and awarded WeirdWired the Best Special Effects prize.

Ivan, who is studying interactive media at West Suffolk College, said: "Filmmaking is something I enjoy doing as a hobby at the moment, but one day I really hope to be a computer games designer, or set up my own games company."

While taking part in the competition, Ivan was filmed by a crew commissioned by the Open University which is creating study materials for their Childhood module, in which they are interested in how technology has impacted on developing friendships, communication and creativity.

Youngsters flock to take part in pantomime fun

Festive fun: Aladdin and his Magic Lamp is this year's Haverhill Arts Centre pantomime.

TALENTED children are proving to be keen to take part in this year's pantomime.

The Haverhill Arts Centre has been swamped with children wanting to take part in Aladdin and His Magic Lamp.

Chris Gidney, the show's director, said: "We had so many talented youngsters wanting to be in Aladdin, one of the most popular pantomimes – it was difficult knowing who to choose."

"This year, after lots of conversations with various dance schools, we have decided to work with The Lisa Mason School of Dance."

Lisa, who has several dance classes based in the area, said: "It's such a wonderful opportunity for the children to work with the professionals, and quite moving that many of those I have nurtured over several years are able to put what they have learnt into practice with such an experienced production company." Rehearsals with the children will begin soon, and the youngsters will be working with television and West End stars to get the show ready for December.

Aladdin and His Magic Lamp runs at the Arts Centre from December 16 to 19. Book tickets from the box office on (01440) 714140 at www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk.

First Aid in one day during half term

YOUNG people interested in completing a first aid course in just one day can do so in their half term holiday.

Haverhill Volunteer Centre is offering a Basic First Aid Course to people from the age of 11 on October 24.

The course will take place in the Burton Centre in Camps Road from 9.15am to 4.00pm.

If you would like to take part, contact the Volunteer Centre on 01440 708444 or email info@hvc.org.uk.

Spa owner's anger at fish HIV claims

BY RUTH NORRIS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A SALON owner has been left "absolutely furious" by "exaggerated" claims that fish pedicures could spread HIV and Hepatitis C.

Theresa Foddering, owner of the A Revolution spa in Murton Slade, offers the fashionable Garra Rufa fish pedicure in her salon, in which the client sits with their feet in a tank of the fish which then nibble off any dead skin.

Theresa says she is fuming following tabloid front-page stories about the alleged risks of the treatment, which the Health Protection Agency has said are very low if correct hygiene practice is in place.

She said: "I have seen some papers this week that have big headlines saying fish pedicures can spread HIV, but if you then actually go on and read the whole article you see that the risk is tiny and only present in tanks which aren't cleaned properly."

"One of my members of staff has been attacked on Facebook by someone who had the treatment, and has been left very shocked by what this person said to her."

"We clean the tanks twice

'Furnishing': Theresa Foddering, above, has hit back at tabloid claims about Garra Rufa treatment.

while each person uses it, and thoroughly check each person's feet first for cuts or abrasions.

"Even if you have a blister, you aren't getting in our tank."

Theresa said she was worried for other salons around the country which rely entirely on the fish pedicure for their business.

She said: "It's just a small part of the service we offer, so these ridiculous claims can't really hurt us, but there are a lot of businesses out there who only offer this treatment and if people are being put off because they have seen these headlines, then what are the companies going to do?"

"At A Revolution we follow strict guidelines to make sure there's no risk of these infections. The fish have to have healthy bacteria so you can't sterilise the tank in a normal way, but we use light to kill off diseases every nine minutes, which means that the water is cleaned twice during your treatment alone."

Theresa will be blogging about her thoughts on the fish pedicure at her salon's website www.a-revolution.co.uk.

Violence down, but more bikes being stolen

CRIME in Suffolk has decreased overall in the last three months, with residents less likely to become victims of violence, but more likely to have their bike stolen.

The number of recorded crimes in the county decreased by three per cent to 24,200 between April 1 and the end of September from 25,008 in the previous six months.

The number of violent crimes is 444 fewer than in the previous half a year, house burglaries are down by five per cent, and criminal damage by eight per cent.

However, some crimes have increased. The number of drug offences has increased by 13 per cent, and the theft of pedal cycles and sexual offences are both up by nine per cent.

Paul Marshall, assistant chief constable, puts the overall decrease in crime down to positive, high-visibility policing, the effective tackling of anti-social behaviour and a number of offenders being arrested, particularly in relation to burglaries. He said: "The figures for the first six months of the year reflect the excellent work of officers that is going on in the county."

Pyjama party raises charity cash

A PRE-SCHOOL held an all-day pyjama party to raise money for disabled children.

The Stepping Stones under-5s put on their nightwear, dressing gowns and slippers last Friday as part of The Children's Trust Pyjama Week.

The children received a sticker, certificate and an activity book as a memento of their day and each paid £2 to the charity.

Elaine McManus, Stepping Stones' manager, said: "It was a very successful day and all the children enjoyed being dressed in their PJs."

The event raised £38 for the charity, which provides care, education and therapy for children who have become disabled as a result of an accident or illness, or children who were born with complex medical needs.

Hospice team collects words

'BRILLIANT', 'trust' and 'supportive' were some of the words residents came up with about what hospice care means to them.

The Wordettes team from St Nicholas Hospice Care came to Haverhill on Friday to collect words from members of the public as part of national Hospice Care Week.

They roamed the streets around the town centre armed with pens and boards asking people to tell them what sprung to mind when they thought about hospices, and then photographed each person with their word. Barbara Gale, St Nicholas Hospice Care's chief executive, said: "Hospice Care Week is an opportunity to challenge the myths surrounding hospice care and show people that it is about living, not dying."

"Many people think Suffolk hospices only provide end-of-life care and are often surprised when they find out we also care for people of varying age ranges in their own homes, in day care and through counselling and family support."

If you missed the Wordettes, you can send in your word to the hospice by emailing marketing@stnh.org.uk, or posting on their Facebook page.

Action-packed:
LDN Wrestling
offers live fun for the family.

Free tickets to wrestling show for five lucky readers

FAMILY-friendly championship wrestling full of sparkly costumes and audience participation comes to Haverhill this half term.

LDN Wrestling is coming to Haverhill Arts Centre on Monday, October 24 – and organisers are giving five lucky fans a VIP opportunity to see all the action for free, as well as meeting the wrestlers and receiving a programme.

The first five callers to quote Haverhill Weekly News when booking with the Arts Centre on (01440) 714140 will win a pair of tickets plus a VIP package.

Sanjay Bagga, of LDN Wrestling, said: "We have a fantastic line-up for our show in Haverhill and I can't wait to see all the fans. It's live theatre and very much a family show with plenty of audience involvement.

"It's all about fun, excitement and atmosphere. The children can bring signs for their favourite wrestlers."

The event will see mysterious masked man The Dark Lord fighting for the LDN British Heavyweight Championship against champion Alan Lee Travis.

Wrestling politician Richard Parliament will battle Pirate Paul Malen, and 10 wrestlers fight in the championship Rumble, where the wrestlers have to throw each other over the top rope.

Tickets are £12 for general admission and £10 for concessions. Doors open at 7pm with the first bell at 7.30pm.

YOUR GUIDE TO MOVING HOME

1 Moving home can be a complicated business and, in the hectic run to the big day, it is all too easy to forget something vital. The Property News offers their readers this handy checklist that should help avoid major pitfalls. We suggest you tick off the items as you deal with them...

WITH FOUR WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ☐ Check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ☐ Make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move.
- ☐ Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ☐ Notify British Telecom and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone facilities at your new home.
- ☐ Arrange for change of address cards to be printed.

WITH TWO WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Confirm all arrangements, times etc, for meter readings, disconnections and reconnections, with authorities and with your buyer and seller.
- ☐ Make sure you have a good stock of packing materials, including sturdy boxes and plenty of string and sticky tape.
- ☐ Begin to throw out unwanted items from attics, wardrobes. What you really don't want you may as well dump now, or send to charity. It's a great time for a good sort out!

WITH ONE WEEK TO GO:

- ☐ Send off change of address cards.
- ☐ Arrange and pay for automatic redirection of your mail by the Post Office.
- ☐ Cancel and pay up accounts for routine delivery services such as milk, groceries, fuel and your Cambridge Evening News. Re-organise these deliveries for your new address.
- ☐ Defrost refrigerators in preparation for move and, if you are moving a freezer and its contents, turn it up to maximum for a couple of days before you move.

WITH ONE DAY TO GO:

- ☐ Complete your packing except for those items you are likely to need overnight, and prepare a picnic for moving day.
- ☐ Have a large enough cash 'float' available to deal with unexpected expenses, and make sure you have collected documents and valuables together in a safe place.
- ☐ Cover carpets which are being left behind, so as to minimise damage during furniture removal.
- ☐ Check through previous lists to make sure nothing has been overlooked, then enjoy a worry-free early night!

2 ON MOVING DAY:

- ☐ Strip beds and pack bedding and nightclothes.
- ☐ Pack items for washing/toiletries.
- ☐ Take down curtains.
- ☐ Take up rugs, carpets, floor coverings, as required.
- ☐ Dismantle any light fittings etc., not included in the sale.
- ☐ Turn off electric appliances.
- ☐ Disconnect cooker.
- ☐ Turn off boiler/central heating.
- ☐ Turn off water.
- ☐ Read gas meter.
- ☐ Read electricity meter.
- ☐ Secure all windows.
- ☐ Lock all doors.
- ☐ Leave key as arranged with new owners.
- ☐ On arrival at your new home, unpack slowly and methodically so that you can check for loss or damage.

3 EXTRA HINTS FOR A SMOOTH MOVE...

WHO TO NOTIFY:

- ☐ Banks.
- ☐ Building Societies.
- ☐ Credit companies.
- ☐ Insurance companies.
- ☐ Gas, Electricity and Water Boards.
- ☐ Telephone company.
- ☐ Local Authority (Rating Department).
- ☐ Driving Licence authorities.
- ☐ Inland Revenue.
- ☐ Store cards and accounts.
- ☐ Other lease, hire or rental companies.
- ☐ Employer.
- ☐ Doctor.
- ☐ Dentist.
- ☐ Schools.
- ☐ Professional Bodies/Trade Unions.
- ☐ Motoring organisations.
- ☐ Newsagent.
- ☐ Friends and relatives.

Mum takes on Wall of China walk in memory of daughter

I can say her name now and smile: Zoe's mum Wendy Slade. Right, a treasured picture of Zoe.

WHEN Wendy Slade talks about her daughter Zoe, her whole face lights up. "She was the most gorgeous baby," she smiles. "She was big and bonny and very happy: every time you looked at her she was smiling..."

"For the longest time, I couldn't picture her face or say her name without feeling painfully sad; the very thought of her made me cry.

"But gradually, as time went by, I reached the point where I could think of her without getting upset: now, when I say 'Zoe', it makes me smile. "That doesn't happen overnight, it takes time. But it does happen."

Zoe died 13 years ago. Aged just six and a half months, she had a severe form of Spinal Muscular Atrophy (SMA); a genetic neuromuscular condition, it causes motor neurons to stop working, muscles to waste and, eventually, organs to shut down. A rare disease, it affects around one in every 6,500 babies born: just 100 new cases are diagnosed each year.

Zoe spent the last eight weeks of her life at EACH

BY ALICE RYAN

– East Anglia's Children's Hospice – in Milton. "I stayed there with her," says Wendy, who lives in Hardwick. "I didn't go home at all for those eight weeks. And I can't tell you how amazing the staff were.

"The doctors would come out in the middle of the night if Zoe needed them. And they supported me, my husband Alan and our older daughter Paige; they continued to support us long after Zoe died.

"They are the reason I'm about to walk the Great Wall of China: if it wasn't for EACH, there's no way I'd be doing it."

Wendy, 42, was speaking to us just before starting an eight-day trek along China's Great Wall; in total she will cover 120km.

"I have to be honest: I'm terrified!" admits Wendy.

"It's not just the physical challenge; it sounds a bit pathetic, but I'm quite daunted at the prospect of going away without my family. I've never been away without them before.

"But I know it's going to be worth it. If I can raise £3,300 for EACH – and raise awareness of the charity too – then I'll be very happy."

Wendy and Alan came to England from their native South Africa in 1989. Paige, now 16, was a toddler, and Wendy was expecting Zoe.

"It was at a time of great political change and, to be honest, the education system wasn't that great. So we decided to move.

"We were intending to go to Canada and only came to England for a stop-over. But Zoe was born while we were here, then she got sick, then she died... When you've buried a child in a country, you can't leave."

When Zoe was born, she appeared perfectly healthy. But Wendy says her maternal instinct soon kicked in: "I just had this feeling, especially being slightly disabled myself, that something wasn't right. Zoe didn't move around the way you expect a little baby to: when you changed her nappy, she just lay there and didn't wriggle."

● EACH – East Anglia's Children's Hospices – cares for children and young people with life-threatening conditions, and also supports their families, across Cambridgeshire, Essex, Norfolk and Suffolk. The organisation provides care and support wherever the family wishes: in their own home, in hospital or at one of three hospices, including the hospice in Milton. A registered charity, EACH needs to raise around £4.8 million in public donations annually to deliver its services. This amounts to more than £13,000 a day, every day of the year. Its services include everything from short-term respite care to family bereavement support. Find out more at www.each.org.uk

The 'slight disability' Wendy refers to is the loss of her right arm, amputated following a motorcycle accident in her teens. "My parents bought me a scrambler when I was 16. I was coming back from a friend's house one day and a car didn't see me ..."

"I still had my arm to begin with. For months I was told I had a dislocated shoulder. In fact, some of the nerves at the top of my spine had been severed, meaning I'd lost the use of my arm forever; if I hadn't been wearing a helmet, I wouldn't be here at all."

Determined not to let her injury hold her back, Wendy sat her school finals just a few months later; within a year, she'd left home and was living in her own flat. "It taught me how to do things with one hand: when there's nobody there to do it for you, you have to learn, don't you?"

Then, five years after the bike crash, Wendy made the decision to have her arm amputated. That was shortly before she and Alan married and Wendy says she has no regrets. "The hardest thing was actually getting up the next morning and looking at myself in the mirror for the first time."

"Of course there are some things I find difficult, but I am a very independent person. One of the things that's niggling me most about going to China is that I won't be able to tie my own walking boots, I'll have to ask my walking buddy, Nicola, to do it for me. It's that kind of thing I struggle with most."

When Wendy raised her concerns about Zoe's lack of movement, a health visitor called to do an assessment – and immediately referred the family to Addenbrooke's, where their baby girl underwent numerous tests. Then came an agonising four-week wait for results.

"We walked into the consultant's office and he told us Zoe had SMA. He said 'Your daughter's life is going to be dramatically shortened.' Those were his exact words, I'll never forget them," recounts Wendy.

"I asked what shortened meant; I was thinking she'd live to 40 or something ... He replied 'She'll be dead by the age of 18 months', just like that."

"I walked out. I'd known there was something wrong, but it was still the biggest shock: Zoe was a big, fat, happy baby, who, at that time, didn't look ill at all."

But Zoe's health soon began to deteriorate. After a series of respiratory problems, she was admitted full-time to hospital – and that's when EACH stepped in. Transferred to the hospice, she was cared for there right up until her death.

"She started off bonny and gradually got thinner and thinner. The illness whittled her away," Wendy continues. "And she was in pain sometimes: she had to have morphine patches."

"When she died they put a little white coffin on the bed, but they didn't take her away immediately. During that time we grieved so intensely. We cried and cried and cried."

"I was worried about going home – I thought it would feel so strange after eight weeks – but by the time we got there it felt right, somehow."

"Grief comes in stages. First of all, you're just grieving. Then you feel angry. Then you grieve because you feel guilty about not grieving. I believe you have to allow all those stages to take their course."

"It's a cliché, but time really is a healer. I don't know how long it took – seven, eight, nine years – but eventually we did heal. And my Christian faith has helped too: I do believe Zoe's in another place."

After Zoe died, Wendy thought she'd never have another child. Her body went into shock, still behaving as if she had a newborn.

"I saw an endocrinologist for a long time. He told me the chances of me having another child were literally nil, because my body was refusing to register the fact my baby was gone."

But – completely out of the blue – Wendy did fall pregnant again, while on a family holiday in South Africa.

Although delighted, Wendy says she was terrified the new baby might have SMA too. "I had a test where they take some of the amniotic fluid. I can still remember sitting on the stairs waiting for the results, waiting for that phone to ring ..."

"I'd promised myself that, if the baby had SMA, I would have a termination. I couldn't watch another baby go through that."

"I was at the stage in my pregnancy where I would need to be induced, to go through labour."

"Thank God, the test came back clear. And we went on to have our son, Zane."

"He's nine now, and he's the most delightful child you could wish for. Everyone loves him."

Wendy – who runs Abantu, a fair-trade gift store and café in Bourn – says Alan, her husband, has always been a pillar of strength.

"Luckily, I have the most incredible husband. When I was in hospital after Paige was born, the nurses nicknamed him 'Superdad'; I'd developed pre-eclampsia and she was an emergency delivery, so as soon as she was born I was taken away. I can remember feeling envious of Alan feeding her first, bathing her first ... But he was brilliant. He's always been brilliant."

Wendy has been training hard for the Great Wall of China challenge, getting used to walking miles every day. "People have been very generous, including my suppliers and customers at Abantu," she says.

"I've raised over £2,400, but I want to get that figure up to £3,300. And I want more people to realise what a wonderful organisation EACH is; a lot of people don't even know it's there, but it's played the most enormous role in my life."

"We're now at the 'What if?' stage of grieving," adds Wendy. "We wonder what Zoe would look like, what she'd be doing ... She'd have been moving up to secondary school now, to Comberton where Paige goes."

"I don't think you ever stop grieving, but the grief changes. As I said, I can say her name now and smile; I can think about my little girl and feel happy."

Self defence instructor earns senior status

Qualified:
Greg Malyon
receives his senior KEWAP award from course leader
Steven Timperley.

CP

A MARTIAL arts instructor who teaches self-defence against knife attacks to adults and children has been awarded senior status.

Greg Malyon, an instructor in the Knives & Edged Weapons Awareness Programme (KEWAP), has achieved his senior instructor qualification.

Greg has worked with pupils at Castle Manor and local clubs to help them to reduce their risk of becoming victims of violent crimes, and educate them about the laws and dangers of carrying weapons.

He also works with employers to train staff who may come into contact with violent people.

Greg said: "It seems almost a daily occurrence that when you pick up a newspaper you read about someone being stabbed, sadly especially teenagers. Being a senior KEWAP instructor now allows me to deliver awareness training for those aged under and over 18 years.

"Although there are many knives awareness initiatives being delivered in the UK, KEWAP takes awareness training to a whole new level.

"As a senior KEWAP instructor I am also able to teach self-defence techniques against knives but these in the main are deflection drills and not martial arts moves."

Anyone who is interested in booking a KEWAP course or self-defence related programme should call Greg on 07811 878328 or e-mail GMSD@sky.com.

Police call on public to ring new number

Quick-dial 101 for non-emergencies is revealed

SUFFOLK Police have introduced a new three-digit number for people to dial in non-emergency situations.

Rather than calling Suffolk Police's switchboard number, 01473 613500, the force is encouraging people to ring 101 if, for example, they suspect drug-dealing, if their car has been taken or their property has been damaged.

The new number will have been rolled out across England and Wales by the end of the year.

It is designed to free up the people taking emergency calls and to let people get in touch with the police about non-urgent matters more easily.

Assistant chief constable Paul Marshall of Suffolk Police said:

BY JENNIE BAKER

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

"Everyone knows to ring 999 in an emergency, but research shows that only half of the public know how to contact their local police if they want to talk to them about less urgent issues.

"The introduction of an easy-to-remember, three-digit number should help address this.

"By the end of the year, people will be able to use 101 to contact their local police force's non-emergency service, wherever they are in England and Wales.

"It is also hoped that the introduction of 101 will help divert more non-urgent calls away from the 999 system, freeing up call-handlers to deal with genuine emergencies."

Suffolk Police has urged people to always phone 999 in an emergency, for example, if a life is in danger, a suspect is at the scene of a crime or an alleged offender has been spotted.

When a caller dials 101, the system works out their location and connects them to the force covering that area. They can also speak to an operator to get in touch with someone from another force.

The new 101 number will be available 24 hours a day and calls from all phones cost 15p, regardless of the length of the conversation.

People who have difficulty hearing or speaking can telephone 18001 101.

I have some questions...

ONE of J B Priestley's five 'time plays', and perhaps his most famous work, An Inspector Calls, returns to the Cambridge Arts Theatre this week.

Written during the dying days of the Second World War, An Inspector Calls finds Priestley casting back to an Edwardian age of innocence and exploring the fault-lines running through the lives of a seemingly respectable northern family.

It's a description that applies equally well to other plays in the Priestley canon, including Eden End, which enjoyed a successful run at the Arts Theatre during the summer.

So what was it that kept drawing Priestley back to his own past to those much eulogised summer days before the back of Europe was broken by the First World War?

"He once said that if he wrote a contemporary piece, it was very difficult not to make it journalistic," says Tom Priestley, 80, the only son among JB Priestley's five children.

"But it's true that for him pre-1914 was his youth, which in a sense was destroyed by his experiences in the trenches in France. So he had a kind of affection for that particular period."

Tom believes his father's interest in time-travel was driven by his belief there was more to life than the here and now. "I consider him a religious man, although he wasn't party to any particular faith. He believed there was another side to life beyond getting up, going to work and shopping. And at a time when science was very much coming to the fore I think he found the theories about time gave him, let's say, a new look at life."

Born in Bradford in 1894, John Boynton 'Jack'

Priestley rose from humble beginnings as a junior clerk in a wool office to become one of the most celebrated writers of the 20th century. For a time, his plays fell out of favour, until a pre-Hollywood Stephen Daldry rescued An Inspector Calls from its quiet dotage as a staple of the village am-dram circuit with his electrifying 1992 National Theatre revival – the version that continues to play to packed houses up and down the country today.

■ An Inspector Calls, Cambridge Arts Theatre, until October 22, 7.45pm. Tickets from £15. (01223) 503333 / www.cambridgeartstheatre.com.

PERIOD DRAMA: JB Priestley's An Inspector Calls is set in an Edwardian age of innocence and centres around the suicide of a young factory girl.

MUSIC

A twisted tale of Latin lovers

CENTRE Stage Company continue with their latest musical, based on Barry Manilow's Copacabana, from tonight until Saturday.

The youth section of the company tell the story of Lola, who travels to New York in search of fame and finds herself performing at the world famous Copacabana Night Club. She meets Tony and they fall in love, only to be separated by Rico, a gangster from a rival nightclub, The Tropicana. Will Tony and his friends be able to save Lola before it's too late? Come along and find out. Evening shows are at 7.30pm with a matinee at 2.30pm on Saturday.

■ Elizabeth Harrison is the guest of the Haverhill Keyboard Club on Tuesday, October 25 at 7.30pm. An accomplished organist with more than 14 years' experience, Elizabeth is an award-winning performer with a delightful style and playing technique and one of the very few female organists on the circuit.

■ From the writer of Sooty and The Basil Brush Show, That's Entertainment present a half term treat on Thursday, October 27 for youngsters aged and over. Join Theo the mouse in Magical Mayhem, a show packed with magic, laughter and music for all the family.

■ Greenfingers present Around and Around, a sensory performance and accompanying art workshop for children and young people with additional needs, on Friday, October 28 at 10am. The character Lost is going around and around in circles wondering who she is and where she's going until she meets some new friends. Please book in advance as numbers are limited.

EXUBERANT: the English Chamber Orchestra will be performing a mixed programme later in the season.

Tuning up for a classical season

NEXT Thursday, the Cambridge Corn Exchange will launch its latest Classical Concert Series with a visit from the distinguished Royal Philharmonic Orchestra. Under the baton of conductor Gavin Sutherland, with talented young soloist Alexandra Dariescu at the piano, the orchestra will perform a mixed programme of music including Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Fantasy Overture, Greig's Piano Concerto and a stirring performance of Beethoven's elemental Symphony No. 5. Earlier on the same day, the RPO will also host an interactive half-term concert for children and families.

The orchestra returns on Friday, December 2 for a very special celebration: the Corn Exchange's 25th Anniversary Concert. Conducted by Benjamin Pope, the performance opens with Vaughan Williams' elegiac Fantasia on a Theme by Thomas Tallis, continues with soloist Thomas Carroll performing Elgar's great masterpiece, his Cello Concerto, and is rounded off with Dvorák's greatest work, his Symphony No. 9, known as the New World (or "the Hovis ad", if you really must).

Bucking all recessionary trends, sales for this year's season are already outstripping the previous two years. So just what is it about the Corn Exchange's Classical Concert Season that musicians and audiences find so appealing?

"The Corn Exchange is a wonderful venue at which we have had the pleasure of performing many times in the past," says the Royal Philharmonic's managing director, Ian Maclay. "It has a superb acoustic for orchestral music. We are really pleased to be performing at the venue's 25th anniversary concert in December. It will bring back many fond memories of performing at the official opening – even though the membership of the orchestra has changed somewhat since then!"

And it's not just orchestras which are so passionate about the series; local businesses are supporting it too. NW Brown is sponsoring the opening concert, and Cambridge University Press the concerts in December and March.

Orchestral Series Patron Dr Nigel Brown OBE enthuses: "This is an excellent series and I am delighted to see that businesses are supporting it. I was able to attend some of the concerts last year which were superb so I am very much looking forward to this next series."

■ The Corn Exchange Classical Concert Season runs from October 27 until Thursday, May 24. Ticket prices vary, and a range of flexible discount subscriptions are available. For more information, phone (01223) 357851 or visit www.cornex.co.uk

Horrible history comes to life

HORRIBLE Histories goes where school history lessons never dared. Using actors and groundbreaking 3D special effects, the latest tour from the acclaimed Birmingham Stage Company focuses on two of the most exciting chapters in world history.

The Awesome Egyptians will take you on a journey from the fascinating pharaohs to the power of the pyramids, discovering the foul facts of death and decay with the meanest mummies in Egypt.

The Ruthless Romans, meanwhile, explores a world of evil emperors and gruesome gladiators, including a trip to Roman Britain and an encounter with the legendary Spartacus.

If you love the books – or the BAFTA-winning TV series – this is a great chance to see horrible history brought to life before of your very eyes.

The show is running at Cambridge Arts Theatre until October 29. Phone (01233) 503333 or visit www.cambridgeartstheatre.com for tickets and details.

The big film

THE THREE MUSKETEERS
IN 3D certificate 12A 110m

BRITISH director Paul W S Anderson turns to the 3D format for his old-fashioned reworking that relies heavily on sword play to keep our pulses racing.

The cast members look fierce, duelling with their blades in slow-motion, and the body count is impressively high, albeit without a drop of spilt blood to ensure the family-friendly 12A classification. Screenwriters Alex Litvak and Andrew Davies resort to a glaring anachronism in their pursuit of bigger, bolder thrills. Dirigibles soar over the skies of Europe more than 100 years before the French invented them, providing Anderson's film with set-piece skirmishes in the air. At least the leather diving dress used by Athos to creep up unseen on his adversaries in the Venetian canals harks from the right era. D'Artagnan (Logan Lerman) leaves behind his father (Dexter Fletcher) to seek his fortune in the court of young King Louis (Freddie Fox) and his bride Queen Anne (Juno Temple). En route, the young man crosses paths with Porthos (Ray Stevenson), Athos (Matthew Macfadyen) and Aramis (Luke Evans), who have been disbanded. D'Artagnan earns the Musketeers' respect by challenging Rochefort (Mads Mikkelsen), the head of the guards, to a duel for daring to insult his horse. With the help of M'Lady (Milla Jovovich), D'Artagnan and the Musketeers learn of a plot masterminded by Cardinal Richelieu (Christopher Waltz) to impugn the Duke of Buckingham (Orlando Bloom, pictured) by planting evidence to suggest he has deflowered the Queen. With time running out before King Louis declares war against the British, the Musketeers and their new recruit declare: "All for one, one for all" and hatch a plan of their own to foil Richelieu and restore the lustre of the Queen's reputation. The Three Musketeers is a jolly romp, plying comedy, action and romance with a healthy dose of skulduggery and heaving bosoms. Lerman is a likeable hero in training, adept with his blade but woefully outclassed at wooing maidens. The 3D is largely redundant but will doubtless be employed in a sequel, set up teasingly by the cliff-hanger coda.

Promoting core values

by Hannah Stephenson

Apple growers enjoy their best crop for a decade – thanks to this year's cold winter and damp summer – orchards are hosting apple festivals and events across the country this month, where the public can learn more about the different varieties and glean advice on how to grow their favourites.

Among those celebrating the harvest is Brogdale Farm in Kent, home of the National Fruit Collection and host to the UK's largest apple festival on Saturday and Sunday.

Brogdale grows a staggering 2,200 varieties, of which more than 500 will be on display.

One of the most important things to consider when buying an apple tree for your garden is its rootstock, says Michael Austen, a guide at Brogdale and experienced apple grower.

DOCTORS BE GONE: Brogdale Farm grows 2,200 varieties of apple of which more than 500 will be on display at the UK's largest apple festival this weekend.

"The first thing is to consider how much room you have and then check what rootstock the young tree is on. If you have a small space go for the dwarfing rootstocks like M9 or M27, while if you have plenty of room you could go for an M25 rootstock."

Most suburban situations provide good pollen due to the close proximity of other gardens and it's not always necessary to have pollinators if the bees and other pollinating insects are generous with their visits.

There are some self-fertile varieties but others need a plant partner and you need to take heed of pollination groups. If you don't have a neighbouring apple tree, select two varieties in the same group or the adjoining group. For instance, group 2 and 4 will pollinate group 3 as will any others in group 3.

"Buy a young tree, between one and two years old. The rootstock number should be marked on the label and if it isn't, don't buy, because the rootstock controls the size of the tree," says Mr Austen. "Any good nursery will tell you what rootstock the tree is on."

"Don't go for a tree older than two years because the older the tree, the more risk there is when you plant it. Young trees tend to grow quicker than older ones."

Bare-rooted trees should be planted between the end of November and the beginning of March, but avoid planting during frosty weather or when the ground is waterlogged.

Pot-grown trees can in theory be planted at any time of year, but in summer it will need well watering and should be treated as if it's still in its pot.

If you buy a tree that's been in a container and find that it's potbound when you remove it for planting, tease the roots open before planting it out, or the tree's growth will be stunted.

Apple trees like well-drained, fertile soil in a sunny spot, but don't plant them in pure compost, Mr Austen advises.

"Don't dig the hole, put the tree in and fill it back up with compost. Mix some compost with the soil you've dug out. If you plant the tree in pure compost it will tend to dry out and the compost might be too strong."

If you have good soil, ideally mix some John Innes No 2 or 3 into the soil you've dug out and then fill in the hole, as this will help retain moisture.

Of course, young apple trees will need staking, but take care how you do it.

"All dwarfing trees will need a stake for the whole of their lives. The more vigorous rootstocks will need to be staked for the first five years and after that the rootstocks should be strong enough to hold the tree up.

"Put the stake on the windward side of the tree, so that the wind is blowing the tree away from the stake."

If all goes well, you should be harvesting your first fruits in the third year after planting, building up to producing a full crop by the fifth or sixth year, says Mr Austen.

Easy trees, which tend to be fairly disease-resistant and produce good crops, include Red Falstaff, Red Windsor and Greensleeves, he says, as well as Egremont Russet, which is good for organic growing.

There are fears for the future of traditional English apple varieties, which are in decline due to a lack of consumer demand for home-grown varieties.

To help reverse the trend, Copella, working with The National Trust, has launched a Plant & Protect campaign to raise awareness and encourage gardeners to return the English apple to its former glory.

It has also teamed up with Thompson & Morgan, which is offering a range of English apple trees for your garden and advice on how to grow them. Full details can be found at www.copellafruitjuices.co.uk.

up! up! and away

Volkswagen's new city car

THE new Volkswagen up! is now available to order, ahead of the city specialist arriving in UK showrooms next spring.

While the up! might have the interior space and features of a larger car, its prices are in keeping with its small footprint, starting at £7,995, and rising to £11,180.

From launch, the up! will be available with two 1.0-litre three-cylinder petrol engine options as well as a BlueMotion Technology version; it will have three doors and three trim levels – Take up!, Move up! and High up! – plus a special edition, the up! black and up! white. A five-door version is expected to join the line-up in the second half of 2012.

The range starts with the £7,995 1.0-litre 58bhp Take up!. Basic spec include body-coloured bumpers, daytime running lights, front and side head/thorax airbags, the new RCD 215 CD radio with aux-in, rear ISOFIX points, and 14-inch steel wheels.

For £8,970, customers can

upgrade to the Move up!. This brings a host of comfort-oriented features, including remote central locking, aircon, electric front windows, easy-entry seats, a height-adjustable driver's seat, variable-height load floor and 60:40 split/fold rear seats. Outside, the Move up! gains body-coloured door mirrors and handles.

For just £360 more, the Move up! BlueMotion Technology adds a Stop/Start system that reduces urban fuel consumption by up to six per cent, battery regeneration and low rolling resistance tyres.

These measures enhance combined fuel economy to an expected 67.2mpg, and reduce CO2 emissions from 105g/km to a forecast 97g/km – making it exempt from road tax.

The £10,390 72bhp High up! model is perfect for sophisticated urbanites, coming as it does with heated front seats, a leather-wrapped steering wheel, gear lever and handbrake grip, electrically heated and adjustable door mirrors, the Maps & More personal infotainment device and a choice of dashboard colour. From the outside, the High up! is distinguished by its front fog lights and 15-inch alloy wheels.

For the sybaritic, the special edition £11,180 up! black and up! white models are based on the High up!, but add even more style, from the deep black pearl or pure white metallic paint to the chrome door mirror caps and door side strips to the 16-inch alloy wheels with body-coloured centre sections.

Values for used 4x4s rising

LEADING vehicle auction company, British Car Auctions (BCA) is warning motorists that 4x4 values have already started to rise – and will climb further as winter weather takes hold, with severe conditions predicted to be on the way.

September saw the value of four wheel drives begin to climb sharply, with prices now getting close to those seen in January and February this year. The average value for all 4x4s sold by BCA in September rose to £12,805 from £12,509 in August and £10,381 in July.

September recorded the second highest average 4x4 value so far this year and there is every indication that values will rise further in the colder months ahead. Tim Naylor from BCA believes anyone in the market for a 4x4 would be wise to buy now, especially as last year's early snowfall caught out many people.

On the up: 4x4 values peak over winter.

"For many motorists – particularly those living in rural or remote areas – a 4x4 is becoming a necessity in winter, rather than a luxury," said Naylor. "Although we had an unusually warm September, prices have already started rising and the first hint of snow and severe winter conditions could see significant demand for all-weather vehicles which will send values sky high."

So what should buyers be looking for? "When it comes to choosing a 4x4, buyers should look for a high specification vehicle to ensure it retains its value," continued Tim Naylor. "Alloys, leather interior, aircon and sat-nav all add value. Buyers also like 'rugged' accessories, such as mounted spotlights and a roof bar, and these accessories can drive prices up too."

"Performance and torque could also be important for future buyers and diesels are generally more popular although petrol does well as long as the mileage isn't too high."

"But absolutely essential is ensuring the vehicle has a comprehensive up to date service history," Naylor concluded.

'Priced off the road': Cost of insurance stings young

ALMOST all young drivers feel they are being priced off the road by the cost of motor insurance, according to a new survey, writes Peter Woodman of PA News.

As many as 21 per cent of these young motorists have considered driving without insurance, revealed the poll by the Young Marmalade insurance company in conjunction with the House of Commons Transport Committee.

The committee's chairman, Louise Ellman, said she was "extremely concerned" at the poll results.

She added that she would be putting the results of the survey to ministers when they appear before the committee later today to give evidence in an inquiry into the cost of motor insurance.

Among those appearing is former home secretary and justice secretary Jack Straw.

The poll of 1,127 young drivers showed that 96 per cent felt young drivers were being priced off the road, while 30 per cent had considered altering the information they provided to insurance firms in order to get a lower quote.

More than half (57 per cent) were unaware that, after an accident, insurance firms often pass personal details to a solicitor, car hire firm or garage in return for a referral fee.

Mrs Ellman (Lab, Liverpool Riverside) said: "I am extremely concerned about these results, which show that young drivers think they are being priced off the road because of the high cost of motor insurance.

On the road: But young drivers face making painful decision which could put themselves and others at risk.

"It is shocking that so many young drivers are considering breaking the law – by driving without insurance or changing the details they provide to insurers – in order to get a cheaper premium."

She went on: "It's revealing that most young drivers are also unaware that many insurers receive referral fees in order to deal with claims they make."

"This highlights why the committee called for referral fees to be made more transparent in its report on the cost of motor insurance earlier this year."

Mike Penning, parliamentary undersecretary of state for transport, said: "We know that the cost of insurance is a problem for young drivers. That is why we are making changes to the driving test to make sure it better prepares drivers for real life on the road, and introducing a new 'pass plus' qualification to help improve the skills and knowledge of young drivers so that insurers then have the confidence to offer them lower premiums."

"In addition, we have introduced a new offence of keeping an uninsured vehicle, helping us to take targeted action against uninsured driving, which contributes to higher premiums."

Former Home Secretary Jack Straw told the Transport

Committee that car insurance premiums have reached "extortionate" levels.

Mr Straw, the Labour MP for Blackburn, said "perfectly law-abiding people" in the north-west of England were being particularly badly hit by sky-high insurance costs.

He told the House of Commons Transport Committee that some involved in the car insurance business were "parasites" who were engaged in "bribery".

Mr Straw said: "Claims management companies are parasitic. In any other walk of life, we would describe this racket by referral companies as bribery."

"These practices are leading to very substantial (insurance) increases on law-abiding motorists."

The development comes as a poll by Confused.com shows that drivers have been lumbered with an average year-on-year rise of 12.3 per cent in the cost of comprehensive motor insurance cover: this equates to a £92 jump in just 12 months.

This rise of 12.3 per cent year-on-year is especially significant when compared to the Consumer Price Index – a measure of inflation – which currently stands at 4.5 per cent, making the rises in car insurance prices almost three times as high as inflation in the UK. The national average comprehensive car insurance premium currently stands at £843.

Full details on the rabid nature of the insurance industry's hikes this year can be found at www.confused.com.

Pixie Lott: Something of a DS3 Racing fan.

Her Lott's not so bad

BRITISH pop starlet Pixie Lott is continuing her musical relationship with Citroën.

The triple-platinum selling singer-songwriter takes the special edition DS3 Racing for a spin in her new music video for single What Do You Take Me For. Featuring US hip-hop artist Pusha T, the new track, out November 7, is taken from Pixie's forthcoming second studio album, Young Foolish Happy.

Cambridge lads kick off their mobile repair service

TWO young Cambridge men are taking to the road with a service they hope will be a boon to harassed drivers – a mobile servicing and repairs business.

Jonathan Cook and Dan Elliott have launched Job Done, offering vehicle owners extensive on-the-spot assistance, including work on brakes and clutches, servicing and other repairs.

They reckon they will be cheaper than most garages – and that the mobile service is more convenient for many drivers.

Dan said: "We're cheaper as we have no overheads, so we can pass the saving on to the customer. Our labour rate is £35 an hour inclusive of VAT."

"And because we're mobile, we can come out to where the customer is, be it workplace or home, and do most mechanical tasks on their vehicles in situ."

"The main items we will be doing are clutches, brakes, servicing, cam belts and MOT work, although we cannot currently do MOT tests themselves."

When a customer calls or emails we will arrange to go and look at the vehicle, diagnose the problem, and then price the job. We will guarantee the job. We will to beat any genuine like-for-like price from a genuine local establishment."

The new firm also plans to offer fully comprehensive inspections of vehicles that customers are considering purchasing, including vehicle data checks.

Ford at Footman James

IT'S Ford's 100th birthday and fans will find plenty to peruse, at this year's Footman James Classic Motor Show when it returns to Birmingham's NEC from November 11-13.

There's plenty of variety on the Mk1 Cortina Owners Club stand, with a 2-door Super, 'woody' Estate, Zetec-engined saloon, Lotus Cortina, and the club's Supreme Champion, a 1200 'fleet'. Jim Scott's superb 1200 won't be on the club stand this year. It's so good; it's in the Meguiars display.

The 100E Owners Club is presenting a Popular, a Prefect, and the 300E Thames Van that appeared in the 1997

Heartbeat Christmas special. For fans of tuned classics, there's a Pinto-powered 100E and a 2.8 V6 300E.

Around 1.3 million Anglias and variants were made, and quite a few will be on the Anglia 105E Owners Club stand.

The Footman James Classic Motor Show is open from 10am until 7pm on Friday, 9am until 7pm on Saturday, and 9am until 5.30pm on Sunday. Ticket prices range from £17.50 in advance, or £20.50 on the door.

For more information visit www.necclassicismotorshow.co.uk. Additional information at www.footmanjames.co.uk.

Elms Cambridge in young Olympian deal

BMW and MINI dealership, Elms Cambridge are delighted to be sponsoring Cambridgeshire-based athletes Harriett Lee and Will Clarke in the lead-up to the London 2012 Olympic Games.

The sponsorship deal means that Harriet is now driving a Mini and Will is driving a BMW, so that they can get to and from training, competitions and events in gold medal style.

Will Clarke is a 26 year-old double British Triathlon champion, an Olympian, U23 World Champion, and U23 European Champion. He was second in Hamburg and first in Schliersee. Will lives in Cambridge with his wife Clare and their Labradoodle Lola.

Harriett Lee, a 19-year-old swimmer, completed a remarkable year by winning gold and silver medals at the International Paralympic Committee World Swimming Championships in Holland. Harriet holds world records for 50m breaststroke at a time of 37.32sec and European Record for 100m Breaststroke time of 1.19.86 sec. Harriet trains in Peterborough and lives in Cambourne.

We wishes them both every success!

The Seat Mii: Shares basic platform with the Volkswagen Up!

'Oh Mii oh Mii': Seat city car ready to roll

MEET the Seat Mii – pronounced 'me' rather than 'my-ee' or 'me-eye'.

It's Seat's new city car that it's touting as a perfect runabout for young, sporty types who spend a lot of their driving time in town.

Promising "compelling practicality", "exceptional driving fun" and "high efficiency", the Mii is Seat's answer to the Volkswagen up!, and shares its basic platform.

At just more than 3.5

metres long it will be sold as a three-door to begin with, followed by a five-door version next year.

At only 854kg, the Mii is one of the lightest 'normal' cars on the road. Light weight helps efficiency, so the UK version of the Mii Ecomotive will have CO2 emissions of only 97g/km along with fuel economy of 67.3mpg.

Continental Europe, however, will get a special variant with just 86g/km of CO2, which is only 1g worse than the current best for an internal combustion-engined car, set by the Kia Rio 1.1-litre diesel.

It's a shame Seat has no plans to make a right-hand-drive version of the lesser-emissions model. But Seat has fair reason to hold off when it will already have a Mii in this country that benefits from free road tax by being under the 100g/km barrier.

There will be two petrol engines, with 59bhp and 74bhp. Technological highlights aimed at the young audience Seat wants to capture include the Seat Portable System.

Hardly a catchy name, but the removable five-inch screen can be used as a satnav when you're on foot as well as in the car, and it has full integration into the car's phone and audio systems.

Check www.seat.co.uk or phone Marshall Seat on 0844 243 4999 for details.

Who gets your vote as dealer of the year?

FORGET the What Car? Car of the Year Awards and all the other motor industry accolades handed out every year.

The most prestigious and sought-after title in the motoring industry is set to be Car Dealer of the Year, a new competition just launched by the online service Car Enquiry to find Britain's favourite car dealer.

Members of the public and the trade can nominate and vote for their favourite car dealer and tell the country why they should win.

The winning dealer will be the envy of the motoring industry, winning the coveted accolade and a fantastic trip for two to Brazil.

All those who vote for their favourite car dealer will also be up for inclusion in a prize draw, the winner to receive an iPad 2.

Paul Boddington, who runs Car Enquiry, said: "We hope the competition will highlight just how important reputable car dealers are in the lives of consumers."

Many within the industry, as well as satisfied car-buying customers, will agree.

Paul points out that buying a car on the internet or off the side of the road can be dangerous. There are all sorts of pitfalls involved when you can't be sure whether the seller is trustworthy – the car could be clocked, cloned or it could have some major defect which is not obvious.

Paul and his team conceived the idea of a Car Dealer of the Year award as a way of rewarding the industry, and are hoping that car buyers everywhere will join in the quest to find the crème de la crème of car dealers.

To enter and vote all you have to do is visit the website www.cardealeroftheyear.co.uk.

Meanwhile freecovered.com, the only company in the UK to give away free motoring legal protection, has this week launched the search for Britain's most accident prone driver in Cambridge.

Perhaps you are always involved in motoring mishaps or have an accident prone friend who has a history of doing something silly when they get behind the wheel?

freecovered.com is looking to find the driver who has had the most accidents, however amusing or weird.

The company offers free vehicle legal protection up to £100,000.

You can enter online at www.freecovered.com.

The winner crowned Britain's most accident prone driver will walk away with a cheque for £1,000.

Chevrolet lines up Aveo for January

THE all-new Chevrolet Aveo is set to arrive in showrooms next January, with great value pricing to match its striking looks.

From only £9,995 for the 1.2 LS model, the Aveo builds on Chevrolet's reputation for delivering great value for money – but it's more than the keen pricing that will make it appeal to customers.

With its dramatic sculpted front end styling and imposing wedge-shaped profile, the New Aveo brings a sharp, edgy feel to the supermini segment with prices starting at £10,995.

Four engines will be available from launch – a 1.2-litre petrol unit developing 84bhp, a 1.4-litre petrol engine with 99bhp or two 1.3-litre diesels, with power outputs of either 72 or

The official fuel consumption figures in MPG (l/100km) for the Kia range are Urban 19.9 (14.2) - 52.3 (5.4), Extra urban 31.7 (8.9) - 68.9 (4.1), combined 26.2 (10.8) - 62.8 (4.5). Official CO2 emissions range from 117-258g/km. Finance subject to status, written quotations available on request. Terms and conditions apply.

You want to buy a second-hand car.

Just something that's fuel-efficient. But it needs a bit of  power – your neighbourhood's quite hilly and your groceries can be so heavy. And it's nice to have an engine that roars.

General Vacancies

Contamac Ltd is a producer of highly specialised polymers used in the manufacture of both contact, and intraocular lenses. Research and development activities are crucial to the continued growth of the company and as a result of our expanding product development activities we are seeking to recruit additional staff to join our R&D team based at our headquarters south of Cambridge.

R & D Laboratory Technician

Working under the direction of a Project Leader, you will be responsible for the preparation and curing of monomer formulations followed by their subsequent characterisation through specialist techniques. You will be comfortable working independently to deadlines and able to present results clearly and accurately.

The successful applicant will have a chemistry background with a good knowledge of polymerisation processes and polymer characterisation. Familiarity with testing procedures, such as mechanical testing would be an advantage, as would experience of GC-MS. Holding a degree (or equivalent) or having considerable relevant experience, you should be a conscientious and flexible team worker with an analytical attention to detail. Good communication skills are essential to this role.

We offer excellent working conditions, competitive salary and a committed, businesslike and friendly working environment. This is a full time position with a salary in the region of £20,000, dependent on experience and qualifications.

If you feel able to meet this challenge and join a dynamic team within an ambitious organisation, please e-mail a detailed CV to Jenny Wiegold at jenny@contamac.co.uk or by post to Contamac Ltd, Bearwalden Business Park, Wendens Ambo, Essex, CB11 4JX.

Closing date is Friday 4 November 2011.

Excellent PackageStansted*Property Manager

Commercial and Residential Asset Portfolio

My client, City and Country Group, is an established and successful property development group operating across the South East. The Group is a privately owned business covering both commercial and residential sectors and over time has built up a range of property assets covering modern and period buildings as well as holding various strategic land assets and other ancillary property.

With the planned growth of the business there is now a need to recruit an experienced Property Manager to manage these assets and ensure, that through proactive asset management, property income is maximised. You will be responsible for assessing, appointing and managing the performance of the required contractors, consultants and other specialists. As the role covers a wide range of property assets, the position offers significant challenges and opportunities for the successful candidate.

A well experienced and hands on property professional, with a high level of personal credibility and a successful track record in managing a broad range property assets covering commercial and/or residential assets is sought for this key role. Passionate about their work and able to manage the diverse range of duties required to maximise profit you will possess the necessary drive and tenacity to be successful in an empowered and challenging professional operating environment. With excellent communication and project management skills you will be familiar with current property legislation, be commercially astute with an unstinting attention to detail and IT literate.

If this challenging role is something that you would like to know more about please send a full CV or call for an informal chat

Your CV

When you send your CV off to a potential employer, remember that you won't be the only one. Hundreds of other people could be applying for the job as well.

So what are you going to do to make you stand out from the crowd? Why should an employer take a chance on you instead of someone else?

Your CV is your first real chance to sell yourself to a potential employer. Most employers will scan through a CV in about 30 seconds so you need to grab their attention from the start - and make them want to invite you for an interview.

There are five main areas to consider when writing your CV:

- Make sure your CV looks the part. Your CV should look clean and tidy - don't scrawl it out on a piece of A4 paper. If you haven't got access to a PC or printer, ask a friend or use your local library. Use a good quality paper and steer clear of fancy borders and front covers.
- Watch out for silly spelling and grammar mistakes. They make you look lazy and show employers that you don't really care. It's not difficult to do a spell check on your PC and if you're really stuck then don't just guess, reach for a dictionary. Get a friend to read through your CV for you - a second opinion is always useful.
- Make sure your CV is well organised. When you list your previous jobs, make sure the dates are correct and try not to leave any gaps. If you took time out to go travelling then say so - employers won't mark you down just because you've tried something new.
- Don't waffle. Remember that employers don't have time to read every word of your CV. Long paragraphs and sentences put people off, so try bullet-points to break up text. Make sure your CV is no longer than two pages long - employers don't want your life history, they just want to see that you've got what it takes to do the job.
- Don't list any failures. Employers have enough trouble finding someone who is right for the job - they don't need help finding reasons not to employ you. If you have to include a mistake from your past, make sure you show the employer that you learnt something from the experience.

Keep it simple

Personal details

Start off with your full name, address, date of birth, home and mobile phone numbers, email address and nationality. If you are offered an interview, the employer will want to get hold of you so give him as many options as possible.

Summary/professional profile

This is the No1 area for selling yourself. Set out your main skills and personal qualities but keep it interesting and tight - one paragraph should do to cover everything.

Education and qualifications

List your qualifications and education history, with the most recent first. You don't need to list the grades for each exam you have passed unless they were exceptional results - simply listing the number and type of exams you've passed is fine. Also, list any relevant professional organisations you belong to and training courses you have been on.

Work experience

Start with your most recent position and work backwards, giving addresses along with start and finish dates. Set out your main responsibilities, duties and most importantly achievements, along with any skills you picked up or improvements you made while you were there. This is a really important section in your CV so make it count - but don't waffle.

If you have not had a full-time job before, detail any part-time jobs you may have held or any placement you have been on.

Other skills

Set out any computer skills you may have and the software you are most familiar with. Can you type, do shorthand or speak a foreign language fluently? If you have a driving licence, let the employer know. If it's clean, tell them.

Interests & hobbies

Briefly list what you get up to in your spare time. Put down any positions you hold in clubs or associations, along with any responsibilities and achievements.

References

Make sure you have at least two people (including one from your previous or current job) who will tell an employer what a thoroughly nice person you are and what a potential asset to the company you would be.

If you want to list them now make sure you include their name, job title, postal & e-mail address and contact phone numbers. Alternatively, just put "Available on request" so the employer knows to follow up references at a later date.

Add a covering letter

The main aim of a covering letter is to encourage an employer to give you a chance. You want them to read your CV, so sell it to them. You should always enclose a covering letter when applying for a job - most employers won't consider you unless you do.

A covering letter should let the employer know why you are interested in the job and why you think you can do it.

The hints and tips below should point you in the right direction:

- Keep it simple. A covering letter should be short and to the point - no more than six paragraphs.
- Mention the job. If you are replying to an advert, mention what the job is and where you saw it. The company may be advertising for other positions and it may not be clear which job you are applying for.
- Sell yourself. Explain why you are the perfect candidate for the job. Show off your strengths and experience. Refer to your CV - if it goes missing then at least an employer will know that you've sent it.
- Check it for mistakes. A silly spelling mistake in a covering letter is likely to cost you your chance of getting an interview. Also, make sure it is addressed to the right person in the right department.

A covering letter can be just as important as a CV in getting you an interview. It's your first point of contact with your potential employer - so make it count.

10-man Wratting dig deep to ease through

West Wrating 3 Warboys 1

Cambridge and District Colts League Cup, under-16

TEN-MAN Wratting battled into the next round after their fortunes were turned around early in the second half.

Minutes after Harrison Ford broke the deadlock with a free kick which deceived the Warboys keeper, Wratting were reduced to 10 men after Luke Wilson was sent off for retaliation.

Wratting's response was to take the game to their opponents, Harry Willett thumping the crossbar after Josh Free produced a bit of magic down the right.

Fired up, Harry Willett fired another free kick – awarded after Zak Ollington's cross was handled – and Dan Espin made it 3-1 with a cool finish.

Ramsey 1 Hndon Hawks 12

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-13C TYLER Bell wound up with four goals as Hawks' relentless pressure paid dividends.

Harry Sargent and Milo Holmes weighed in with hat-tricks and Jake Ryan and Anders Pilley completed the scoring, with Ramsey getting a late consolation.

Kedington 4 Priory Parkside 2

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-14B KEDINGTON bounced back from conceding two early goals to snap up the points.

However, they did not make their mark on the game until late in the first half

Haverhill get off to a flyer

>> UNDER-NINE

HAVERHILL made a successful start to their first season of contact rugby by picking up two wins at Ely Tigers.

The tense first game was decided by a solitary try which came after Craig Martin-Gowings' crunching tackle forced an Ely runner to knock on. Scrum-half John Adams collected the ball from the back of the resulting scrum and out-paced the home cover to cross the line. Rohan Vaira scored two tries on his club debut as Haverhill won the second match 30-0. Hayden Lawrence, Oliver Loveridge and John Adams added further scores to put the side in a strong position and Oscar Harwood turned over the ball at the breakdown, and ran through three challengers to set the seal on the victory with a late try.

>> UNDER-EIGHT

HAVERHILL managed to score 11 tries in their three-match series against the large, talented Ely squad. They were rarely outplayed, bouncing back from a 35-20 defeat in the opener to win the second match 25-15 and falling just short in the final match which they lost 30-20 to late tries. Kai Rintoul, Ben Warren, Riley Brown, Aidan Denty, Sam Davies and Neve Quinn scored the tries.

>> UNDER-SEVEN

THE under-sevens managed to improve their scoring in each of their three games against Ely. They made a slow start to the first match, losing 45-5 despite creditable defending from skipper Oliver Brown and Elijah Brandt. Bradley Peachy scored the try. Peachy, Brown and Kofe Brandt went over in the 40-15 defeat, where Maddox Claydon, Jack Davis and Ewan Grey attacked well. And Peachy added another try in the final game, in which Haverhill produced a better performance but lost 40-25. Orlando Crook and Arun Varia scored their first touchdowns for the club and Ewan Grey completed their scoring in the last minute.

when George Mustoe turned to fire home.

They were level by the break when Ty Alleyne pounced on the rebound after Lewis Head's shot cannoned back off the crossbar.

But they could not get their noses in front until the later stages when skipper Jason Moore scored with a powerful header and Alleyne scored his second in the dying minutes.

Huntingdon Rowdies 2 Haverhill Rovers 7 Cambridge and District Colts League, under-13B ROVERS still dominated on a difficult playing surface despite being unable to play their normal passing game.

The Rowdies' keeper did his best to keep his side in the game as long as possible and even when he was beaten – by an own goal – his side maintained his spirit of defiance and equalised.

However, James Samms put Rovers in front before half time with a low drive and goals from Corey Slater, Josh Dean, Sam Goodwin, Cameron Kicks and man of the match John Burrell completed the scoring.

West Wrating 11 Bury Town 2

Under-15 friendly

WRATING managed to take all their chances to swamp the team which tops the A division of the Suffolk League.

Ben Weedon (4), Mark Coulson (3), Liam Mitchell, Sam Ager, Harry Wilson and Earle Lambert scored the goals, although Wrating's keepers Aaron Millar and Connor Snow made some good saves to ensure their side racked up an overwhelming victory.

Haverhill Rovers 5 Bedford Town 0

Eastern Junior Alliance, under-14 ROVERS remain top of the league after disposing of a side who seemed content to sit deep and try to counter-attack.

Haverhill, however, played some good attacking football through their midfield and were good value for their 2-0 lead at the break, which was given to them by a Niall Durning penalty and Chidera Nkem-Paul's well-taken effort.

Billy Bush, Nkem-Paul – who went close to a hat-trick with a powerful shot that shaved the woodwork – and Will Bailey scored in the second half to underline their superiority.

West Wrating 2 Histon Hornets 4

BM Kempton 9v9 League Cup, Division A

WRATING'S defence was stretched from the early minutes as Histon showed the greater appetite for the game.

The visitors went 2-0 up after also hitting both post and bar before the home side made changes which gave them a better shape and Aiden Comer narrowed the arrears before the interval.

However, former Wrating keeper Jacob Overall snuffed out their revival in the second half when he slipped home Histon's third, and the visitors went 4-1 up before Daniel Cordwell added Wrating's second.

JACKIE Condon took advantage over the back nine to win the Ladies Matchplay Shield final against Marion Kendall.

The match was close on the outward nine as Kendall tried to maintain her recent form, having been cut two shots after her performance in the ladies' medal the previous week.

Condon made her move at the start of the back nine and piled on the pressure, winning 5&4.

■ Lewis Whiting took pride of place in the men's midweek medal after a day of sub-par rounds, recording a superb 70-8-62. As a result, his handicap has been trimmed by two to six.

Division One: 1 Lewis Whiting 70-8-62, 2 Ellis Brown 74-11-63, 3 Jack Bligh 78-10-68.

Division Two: 1 Stephen Spittle 82-18-64, 2 Neil White 83-19-64, 3 John Stokes 81-16-65.

Division Three: 1 Brian Johnson 90-22-68, 2 Keith McCallum 93-24-69, 3 Graham Hepworth 93-23-70.

Brazier teamed up with Sam Ward and Ronnie Scott (Ufford Park) and John Wilding (Ely) to Condon's late run seals title total 84 points and beat Simon Byford (The Suffolk), Mark Henfield, Paul Pearce and Ben Luke (Bury) with 78.

Tim Cooper (Newton Green) won the professional's prize with a two-under-par 70 from Lawrence Dodd (Bury Driving Range) 73.

■ Ellis Woko made the most of a couple of lucky breaks to win the Mugs Cup Summer Matchplay Knockout.

He beat Nigel Farenden 2&1 in the competition for golfers with 18-plus handicaps.

■ Haverhill Ladies beat Menzies 4-0 in a four ball, better ball contest.

Details: Marian Mercer and Doreen Darbey won 4&3 Margaret Brown and Grace Eastment, Denise Walker and Sheila

>> Rugby union

Playle won 1 up Janet Kilsbry and Edie Robinson, Ann Thompson and Doreen Crosbee won 3&2 Christine Barnes and Mary Clydesdale and Judy Farren, Chris Grainger won 3&2 Rosemary Rennie and Rosemary Hay.

■ Ollie Stevenson scored a commanding victory in the Junior Medal, carding 87-24-63 to finish four shots ahead of his nearest rival Liam Merritt, who shot the lowest gross with 73-6-67.

Merritt just edged out Mitchell Davis on countback, while other notable scores came from Dan Walker 103-36-67, Edward Halpin 98-30-68, Joshua Hulyer 102-32-70 and Nicole Pike 107-32-75.

■ Sally Price and Peter Mercer were the only Haverhill winners as their mixed team lost 5½-1½ at Seckford.

■ The father-and-son partnership of Malcolm and Matthew Robinson won the CAB Edwards Cup by one shot from Del Thomas and Gordon Price.

The Robinsons finished with 70-9-63 in the competition, which had a greensomes medal format played off ¾th combined handicap.

Thomas and Price finished with 71-9-64 with Nigel Taylor and John Annand third on 80-13-67.

Gritty Haverhill hit on the break

Haverhill II 3 Mistley II 10

Suffolk League, Division Two

THE early signs were not too hopeful for Haverhill, as they were camped on their 22m line from the first minute of their first home game for several seasons.

However, the strong Mistley team did not get a chance to put some points on the board until the 15th minute, such was the resilience of the home side.

The dogged display continued until the break when Haverhill, having used three of their four subs, had still only conceded three points.

The second half was almost a complete reverse, the home side forcing Mistley back on the defensive and levelling through a Tom Jury penalty.

But, against the run of play, Mistley broke away to score the decisive try. and although Kevin Carr and Goerge Self spearheaded a massive forward effort, it needed a superb tackle by Chris Boyle, who chased down and won the ball back, to prevent a further try.

Handy Andy: Haverhill's Andy Carr, who started at hooker but went to scrum-half.

Betts blasts Rovers

Haverhill Rovers 0 Brantham Athletic 3

Ridgeons League, Premier Division

PETER Betts has been critical of the standard of refereeing in recent weeks but his frustration was directed entirely at his own players following Saturday's disappointing defeat, their fifth in a row.

The Rovers boss had nothing but praise for the match officials, but with injuries beginning to mount, there were few positives to take from his team's performance.

"We were poor," he said.

"We didn't deserve to get back into the game as we didn't work hard enough. The players were disappointed after the game, more so for the supporters as we had a decent crowd watching.

"I have to say I've been critical of referees in games where we've lost lately, but on Saturday the officials were outstanding.

"We're often quick to grumble when they're bad but we need to praise them when they do a good job as well."

Rovers had chances to score early on but a mistake at the back allowed Brantham to take the lead in the 30th minute. Marcus Hunt conceded a penalty a minute later and the visitors netted their second, while the third early in the second half killed off the game.

"We're on a bad run at the moment," added Betts. "But we're missing some key players. We're down to the bare bones."

Scott Lodge had three decent chances to get on the scoresheet for Rovers. He was denied twice in two minutes, his first shot being deflected wide of the Brantham upright, and he followed that with an acrobatic overhead which went just wide.

Late in the game he and Jack Higgs tested the Brantham goalkeeper, but to no avail.

Haverhill 2 Godmanchester 1

Camb Invitation Cup, preliminary round

TWO goals in the first half on Tuesday helped Rovers into the next round.

We didn't deserve to get back into the game, admits boss

They were 2-0 up at the break thanks to Shaun Banham's goal and a Stuart Wardley penalty, with Johnny Hall claiming what proved to be a consolation.

Rovers will be at Felixstowe & Walton in the first round of the FA Vase on Saturday, and are pencilled in for a Ridgeons League Cup, first round tie against CUP on Tuesday, a game which will be subject to Vase commitments.

Getting shirt shrift: Rovers' Jack Higgs battles for the ball in the 3-0 defeat by Brantham at the New Croft on Saturday.

Wratting have defence issues

WEST Wratting's joint-manager Brian Pilgrim admitted his side had defensive frailties after watching them go out of the Cliff Bullen Cup after a seven-goal, extra-time thriller against Hardwick. Owen Longley and Danny Hills put Wratting 2-1 up but the tie hinged on Longley's chance to make it 3-1 10 minutes from time.

However, he could only fire over after the Hardwick keeper parried Craig Cutts' effort.

The Cambridge side forced the extra half hour but Hills put Wratting ahead again only for Jamie Hampshire to complete his hat-trick and Sam Sabey to fire the winner 10 minutes from time.

Pilgrim said: "We're a good side and we can score goals, but we've got issues with our defending. It doesn't help losing Liam Cutts because he gave the defence confidence, but we've got to deal with it."
